ASSASSINATION AT THE IMPERIAL INSTITUTE

The Daily Mail gives the following account of the murder of Dr. Lalcaca and Sir Curzon Wyllie -- We have to record this morningwith feelings of horror which will be shared by all our readers—the news of a terrible and tragic murder which took place at an "A Home" at the Imperial Institute at elever o'clock last night. Lieut-Colonel Sir William Hutt Curson Wyllio, K.C.I.E., a distinguished retired Indian official, was shot dead by an Indian student.

Before the murderer could be seized he had Signal also mortally wounded Dr. Cawas Lalcaca, Parsee physician, who was standing close by Dr. Laicaca died shortly afterwards.

The assassin, who was immediately arrested is named Dhingri."

AND THE CRIME. The scene of the crime was the room erected by the generosity of Mr. Jehanger, a wealthy Parese. It is decorated throughout in Indian style. Behind the platform is a background of gorgeous Indian screens and radiant embroi-

The company numbered about 200 persons, chiefly natives of India. Many were students, resident in London or at Oxford and Cambridge, but there were also present several distinguished Indians who are visiting this country. Many of them wore native dress; others were evening dress and a turban. A number of Indian ladies were in the gathering, and their brilliant robes added a touch of colour and picturesqueness to the scene.

A musical programme was carried out, and a young Hindu student rendered an Urdu song in a remarkably sweet tenor voice. At 1 o'clock only one more item of the programma remained to be performed, and many of the guests were already making their way downstairs towards the clock rooms.

At the moment a young Hindu student, wearing a dark lounge suit and a pale blue turban, suddenly walked up to Sir William Curson Wyllie, who was moving towards the stairs. The Hindu thrust a revolver in the face of the Englishman, and fired with the utmost rapidity four shots, before anyone in the horrified crowd could intervene. He then drew back a yard and fired a fifth shot as his victim fell. " A sixth shot was discharged which struck a middle-aged Indian in the side. Whether it was deliberately aimed at him or whether the hit was accidental is impossible to

. A young student and an English gentleman were the first to recover their presence of mind. They rushed forward and seized'the aim of the assassin. As he stood there he seemed a quiet, serious-looking youth of about eighteen of nineteen years of age. He wore gold-rimmed spectacles. He struggled desperately, and getting one hand free he placed his pistol to his temple and pulled the trigger. All the chambers had been emptied. His captors forced him down to the ground, wrested the pistol down, and hold him firmly on the floor.

Others of the company rushed up to the ald of the men who were struggling with the assassin. While some called fo doctors and summoned the police, others assisted in pinioning the criminal. It was thought advisable to search his pockets, in case he had other weapons on him. To the horror of those about him, two other revolvers and long dagger were extracted from his pockets.

When his weapons had been taken from him he became perfectly calm. In fact, he was by far the coolest man in the group. He asked one of his captors to replace his spectacles, which had fallen off in the scuffle. His turbanhad been unwound and lay across a chair.

The doors were closed to shield the scene from the eyes of the horrified guests. The exquisite Indian acreens were burriedly brought down from the platform and arranged so that with the latest improvement, the all might reach the stairs without seeing what had happened. The grief and indignation of lightest touch, the strongest and the the guests were terrible to witness. As the name of Sir William Curson Wyllie was whispered round as that of the English victim, many of the natives broke into sobs, "He was one of the best friends India ever had," said one indu. Another exclaimed, "And I was to have seen him to-morrow." Others demanded to see the face of the o urderer that they might discover who he was,

"I'm sorry for the poor fellow, be's mad," one English gentleman of military appearance said But a Hindu near him cried, "No, I'm not sorry for him. I'm sorry for India, which will have to suffer for his wrong-doing. We all have to share the blame for what he has done." Every native present echoed this feeling.

While this was passing, doctors had arrived, but nothing could be done. A detective and two constables came up. The situation spoke for itself. One victim lay motionless on the stone floor in a pool of blood, his distressed wife supporting his head and seeking valuly for some sign of life. The other victim was writhing in agony, half-conscious and groaning. from time to time. An ambulance had been sent for as he was evidently seriously wounded. It was heartroading to see him suffering. boigg sidarimistal, pa becass sadw gairub. of waiting, but nothing could be done.

The suddenness of the tragedy efter two hours of delightful music and conversation made the shock all the greater; which . No one present will ever forget the scene of Oriental splendour which in one instant w transformed into one of the utmost horror,

THE MUNDERER. The murderer, who gave his pame as Dhingri, a student, of Bayswater, was taken to Walton-street Police station, the land to the He is a youth of about twenty years-in appearance more like a Partee than a Hindu. His smooth, olive-coloused face and thick hair curling over a low forehead mark his origin; though his dress is that of the European. Seated on a chair in the charge-room, he leaned his head against the wall and closed his eyes as if asleep. His coat had been taken from him, and the cuffe of his white lipen shirt were jurned back as if he had made ready, for some desperate deed, His dress showed scrupulous care and not a little of the pride of personal rappearance that characterises the Indian student .. A nest dark tie with dittile collat was copspicuous over a buff walstoost.

Upon the bench at the other side of the charge room lay his jacket, of dark striped material, together with a folded white pocket handkerchief, a penknife, a bunch of keyr, some written papers, a shawl head dress of light blue silk, seven shillings in silver, and three pence.

Now and then the prisoner raised his head from the wall and glanced at the clock, whose bands were approaching one in the mutning. Then he turned to the wall again and closed his eyes for a moment. "May I have my jacket?" he asked af er another glance at the clock. The policeman in charge consulted the superintendent and a rug was ordered instead of the jacket. The prisoner, with the aid of a detective, wrapped the striped rug about his shoulders and disposed himself again to sleep 'A smile occasionally stole over his face, but he spoke not a word and gave no sign of being conscious of the presence of others.

Meanwhile the superintendent of police an the detectives were carefully examining the papers and cards found upon him. One of these papers was evidently a political confession setting forth the motives of his crime. It covered three foolscap sheets in crabbed handwrite ing. Several cards were also among the papers and by the side of them lay the revolver,

At one o'clock the examination of his possessions was completed, and the prisoner was removed to the cells.

The police superintendent at Walton-street Station made the following communication:

"At an Indian function in the Imperial Institute last evening an Indian student named Dhingri, living in Bayswater, shot and killed Sir W. Hutt Curzon Wyllie and Dr. Cawas Lalcaca, a Parsee of Shanghai. Sir W. Hutt Cuizon Wyllie was shot in the head and Dr. Lalcaca in the abdomen. Nothing is yet known of the origin and antecedents of the prisoner but there is no doubt that the crime is political. EYE-WITNESS'S STORY.

LADY WYLLIE'S RECOGNITION OF HER HUSBAND.

Mr. D. W. Thorburn, who witnessed the ragedy, states:

Folding doors gave from the side of the main hall on to a wide square landing, leading to the staircase. This landing had been used during the evening as a kind of ante-room, where the guests had smoked. Chairs were around the sides. The musical programme was nearly over. I think the last item but one on the programme was just finished, and I was standing just inside the open folding doors looking towards the staircase when I saw a middle-aged English gentleman apparently conversing with a young Indian student, dressed in a dark jacket suit and wearing a pale blue-turban.

All at once the native drew a revolver. Th action was quick as thought. He fired four shots very rapidly full into the head of the Ruglishman, with the muzzle of the weapon close to the face. Then another shot at him as he fell, and a sixth, which struck down an elderly Indian gentleman standing two or three vards off, who fell shot in the side.

The first four shots were all fired so quickly that I could do nothing. Then I rushed at the assassin, and another man sprang at him from the other side of the door. We seized him. and he struggled. Wresting one hand free he placed the revolver to his head and pulled the trigger, but it clicked barmlessly. He had fired all his shots.

We got him to the ground and held his wrists. and shouted for doctors and for the police to be summoned. A good many people were quite" hear the open door but inside the hall, and they stood horrified by the sound of the shots. Then they rushed to the folding doors. Other men came round at once to give us assistance.

"Shut the folding doors!" I called, and this was done to prevent the people seeing the fearful slight.

A doctor was in the hall and came at once. He said, " Nothing can be done for him," as he knelt down by the side of the Boglishman. I had asked, while I was still holding the Indian, "Whom has he shot? Whom has he shot?" Someone, I don't know, called out in horror, "It is Sir Cuizon Wyllie I"

WIFE'S ORDEAL.

A stately woman in dark evaning dress came upstairs from the closk room at the sound of the shots to see what had happened. "Poor tellow! she said, as she looked at the form of the Englishman on the fluor. She knelt down, for the wounds had disfigured him. Then saw horror leap to her eyes. Quite quietly she said, "It is my busband, my busband! Why wasn't I with him?" It was Lady Wyllie. She had only left her husband a few minutes before to get her cloak, and he was following her when the Indian student engaged him in conversation. The scene was too terrible. The lady kneeling by her dead husband; a group of us hold. ing the Indian, and the other victim lying groaning upon the floor a few yards away.

The doctor turned his attention to the second victim. There were no signs of a wound on him until his clothing was torn open, when a tiny bullet wound in his side was revealed.

Other doctors came, and then the police One of the doctors was Sir Cutzon Wyllie's own private medical map, who was fetched at the urgent appeal of Lady Wyllie.

The assassin was absolutely calm. While was holding him, some few minutes after the tragedy, I took the opportunity to feel his pulse. There was not a tremor in his arm, not the slightest hastening of the pulse-beat. His goldrimmed speciacles had fallen out of position in the struggle. Heasked permission to readjust them. We loosened his hands a moment, and he quickly pushed the spectacles back over his ears. I think he was by far the least agitated of those who were present. We searched the murderer and found upon him two other revolvers fully loaded and a dagger with a leather sheath almost ta inches

Screens were pulled around the bodies, and the awe-stricken people were got out of the hall as quickly as possible.

Then ambulances came, and the elderly Indian gentleman was taken to St. George's Hospital and the body of Bir Curz in Wyllie was removed. to ...

A detective had by this time thoroughly searched the assassin and taken a card from him. The name upon this, as far as I could

Lieut. Colonel Sir William Hutt Curzon Wyllie, whose cruel murder we have the painful duty of announcing to-day, was one of the most distinguished political agents that our great Eastern Empire had produced. He began life as an officer in the Indian Staff Corps. served in Baluchistan with Sir Robert Saudeman, and accompanied Sir Robert Phayte's force to the relief of Candahar in the Afghan war of 1879-80, and was decorated for its ser-

After the campaign he was appointed first Military Secretary and theo Private Secretary to the Governor of Madras, afterwards serving as Acting-Governor of that Presidency.

. He entered the Civil Service and was appointed Political Agent in charge of the ex-Gackwar of Baroda, who had been deposed after that prince's attempt to poison the British Resident at his Court, Colonel Phayre. He then passed in succession to Hyderabad. Ajmir, Rajoutana and Nepal, the frontier State of the Himslayas and the land of mystery, His experience as a British Resident was thus peculiar and unique. No Anglo-Indian better understood the native Courts and the native princes, and no adviser was abler and more tactful.

His last official position in India was that of President in the Western States of Rajoutana from 1898 to 1901. He retired from the Indian Civil service in 1901, and the same year his vast experience in India and his lifelong service to the British Empire were recognised by his appointment to the important pus: of Political Aide-de-Camp to the Secretary of State for

He was created Member of the Victorian Order in 1902, and Commander of that Order in 1907; and he was also a Knight Commander of the Order of the Indian Empire.

The elderly Indian gentleman who was sho died on the way to the hospital. Upon him were found cards bearing the name : DR. CAWAS LALCACA.

SHANGHAL. He was a Parsee of about fifty years of age The bullet which killed him entered just below the right breast and passed out behind the left shoulder. His dress-coat bore the name of Bombay tailor and his trousers that of a Shanghai firm. He is described as being tall, o medium build, with grey bair and moustache. A pair of pince-nez was in his pockets.

WHAT IT WILL DO. A woman buys a sewing machine for what it will do; not as an article of turniture. A man carries a watch to tell him the time; not as an investment of surplus capital. The same principle when one is ill. We want the medicine or the treatment which will relieve and cure. The friend in need must be a friend indeed-something, or somebody, with a reputation, with a good record, with a history that justifies our confidence. There should be no guesswork in treating disease. People have the right to know what a medicine is, and what it will do, before they take it. HONGKONG, TURSDAY, JULY 27, 1909

THE NEW ORDER IN KORKA,

It is not suprising that the convention signed at Seoul on July 12 between the Korean and Japanese Governments should have occupied a large space in our recent telegrams from Japan The chief provisions of the new agreement are the cession to Japan of control of prisons and the judiciary, the abolition of the Ministry of War and the establishment of the Central Bank of Korea. But events have been leading steadily up to this climax ever since Prince Ito undertoo control of the Korean Fesidency-General and it is commonly supposed that the great Ispanese statesmen only refrained from carrying out these measures at an earlier date because they would have had a disturbing effect upon the already discontented. Koreans. The abolition of the War Office was not unexpected. It will be recalled that the Korean army was disbanded two years ago, and that one battalion of infantry and a troop of cavalry only were retained to represent the Korena service, chiefly as an imperial bodyguard The Ministry of War, with only a handful of troops to supervise, continued to maintain a staff of highly paid officials. Consequently no trouble was feared from the public in regard to to the other. its abolition. But the transfer of judicial rights was quite another matter. Even the Tapanese Piess admits that the course adopted is quite unprecedented; and, in drawing a parallel with Tunis, it points out that judicial power overnatives in that country is still held on the Tunis Government, whereas the transfer | punished with decapitation, of Korea's judicial authority to Japan Includes jurisdiction over Koreaus. With regard to the Central Bank there was no disturbing feature : it was recessary to commercial progress. The sinff of the new bank is to be entirely Japanese and the bank's operations are to be carried on acc ording to Japanese law. Capital has been fixed at Yro,000,000 in 100,000 theres of which the Korean Government is to hold 30,000. The balance is to be offered to the Korean and Japanese pe ple for subscription; and as six per cent. is guarauced by the Korean Government, no difficulty is expected in disposing of the shares.

It is clear, however, that the Japanese authorities in Korea feared lest the administrative changes might lead to an outbreak among the Koreans, and a large force of gendarmes was massed at Seoul. A disturbance actually did occur, but it was easily suppressed; for the Koreans, on second thoughts, apparently were prepared to welcome the arrival of a nev legal regime. Such a change could, at least, involve nothing worse than their own. which was notorious for bribery and corruption and its inability to protect life or property. And so hat part of the convention proved acceptable. In this connection, however, it is interesting to learn that the new order does not mean the application of Japacese law to Koreans or that all the legal functionaries shall be Japanesc. On the contrary the new judiciary is to be composed of both Korean and Japanese officials, tions will be administered. A new code is being prepared, but in the meantime the old Korean iaw applies as far as it goes. Japanese subjects residing in Korea can no longer claim extraterritorial rights. The new law will apply equally to Koreans and Japanese; and thus one subject of sore discontent has been removed, for the Koreans harboured the conviction that in cases of litigation between Japanese and themselves the power of the mailed hand exerted its influence in Korean Courts, whilst Japanese law, as is well-known, gives the benefit of a doubt to a Japanese. Another apprehension was removed when it was learned that the convention contained no menace to the Education Office, and the uneasiness was dispelled by the travsfer of the Korean troops to the Imperial Household where their services will be utilized on occasions of Imperial ceremony. By the terms of the new convention Japan has consolidated her power in Korea to an extent beyond which she cannot go without completely annexing the country. She all ready controls the military power, foreign affairs, the police system, finance, communicanons and the judiciary. There remain nominally in the hands of the Korean Government, the Home Department, and the Departments of Education and of Agriculture and Commerce, which are domestic rather than administrative offices although directly connected with the people. The Asaki argues that Japan's protective. power cannot be successfully applied until Japan possesses all Korea's administrative rights, but it is obvious that when that point has been reached her protective functions will have ceased: she will have annexed the country. But if we can rely on the word of Prince Ito, Japan has no intention of carrying out of conquist of Kores. The Government's intentions are, we are told, to develop Korea for the mutual benefit of Koreans and Japanese, "The HONGKONG TELEGRAPH" should be | but not to deprive the natives of their birthright. The subtle distinction is not, perhaps, very easy to follow. Japan's interests on the mainland are so essential to her plans of empire that control of Korea is a necessity, not only as, a saleguard against ambitious neighbours, but in order to provide herself with the right-of-way, and a base from which possible operations in the future may be conducted further inland

It is unfortunate for the integrity of Korea that she should be so placed. But Japan's -chemes embrace so much real progress for Korea that the position of the individual Korein should be greatly improved within a few years. Korea is a typical example of the small State that cannot be allowed to stand by itself, and it remains to be seen whether she will be worse off in Japanese hands than she might have been in the hands of some other Power. But while this principle may be admitted, it must not be allowed to include any suspicion of denational zation; and in the interests of the work hat she has begun. Japan must see to it that no Kotean is made to feel a stranger in his own land.-N. C. D. News,

The collision took place shortly after noonthe names of the launches being Lee To and the Lee Yee. The meagre details at our disposal go to show that both launches were travelling in different directions. When nea the Tung Hing Street what, at West Point, they got dangerously close to each other. and before anything could be done to avoid a collision, the Lee To crashed into the Lee Yee, striking her amidships, on her port side. In a few minutes the latter launch had foundered. Her crew were rescued from the water without any loss of life, and the damaged craft towed away and beached. The Lee To received slight injuries to her stom.

A report of the collision was made to the Water police, who notified the Harbour Master, and the usual inquiry is expected.

The plaintiff, sworn, stated that he was not a partner in the plaintiff firm. Un the afternoon of the 7th July the bailiff and the defendant visited his shop.

Mr. Smith-What did they do? Haintiff-They asked whether the master was in., I said that the master was at the solicitor's office. Did they seize all your goods? -Yes.

And what happened?- They arrested me. What for?-I told them that the master was at a solicitor's office.

Did the defendant tell the bailiff to arrest you? -- Yes.

Did you say the master of the shop would be back soon?-I did.

When you were arrested, where did they take you to?—The gaol. For how long were you there? -- Twenty-four

Were you comfortable there?-No. I did not have my evening meal, and could not sleep. Were you able to work after you left the gaol?-! could not.

And finding that there were not sufficient goods, and failing to point out any security, the plaintiff was arrested. As a matter of fact the goods in the sh p were not half sufficient to meet the debt-some $700.

Mr. Dixon here cited the three clauses on the warrant which, he said, justified the remedy he took. He also quoted the Indian Civil Code on the subject,

The defendant deposed to accompanying the bailiff to the plaintiff's shop to execute the writ. The stock in trade in the shop consisted of shoes, which were valued at between $300 and $40. His claim was for $742. There were about 800 pairs of shoes in the shop, at the average price of fifty cents a pair The bailiff inquired whether he had any money to pay and the arcountant, the plaintiff, said: "No savee." Two men were arrested in the shop-the plaintiff and another man.

STABBING-AFRKAY AT YAU-MA-TI.

DISTURBED SLEEPER STABBED TWICE IN THE BICK.

A most serious stabbing affair, and one which may terminate fatally, took place at Yau-ma-ti last pight,

Four unemployed Magpo seamen and firemen are under arrest charged with assault and causing grievous boddly harm, while the injured person, a quarter-master, also unemployed, is lying in the Government Civil Hospital suffering from a number of stab wounds, from which it is not expected he will recover. His condition is considered very precarious.

The five men, it would appear, having taken their discharge from their last ship, lived together in a lodging-house at 48, Temple Street, at Yau-ma-ti. They had been living there for some time, and everything was peaceful-the men whiling away most of their time gambling Last night a game of cards was opened between the four seamen, which they continued until about midnight, when the quarter-master, who was in bed in the same room, complained of the noise the players were making, which kept him awake. No notice was paid to the complaint, and in about ten minutes' time, the quarter-master called upon the men to keep quiet or stop the game. This brought about a quarel and a four-to-one fight quickly followed, during which a sheath knife was produced by one of the quartette, who is alleged to have stabbed the quartermaster twice in the back-one wound penetrated near the spine, and the other in the region of the kidneys,

The cries of the wounded man attracted the attention of a passing lukong, who rushed into the house and, finding the injured man sitting up in bed, placed the four scamen under artest. The quarter-master accompanied the coliceman on foot to the Yau-ma-ti Police Station, from where he was sent to hospital.

His alleged assailants were arraigned in the Police Court, this morning, and were remanded, pending the discharge or otherwise of

A BEER RUNNER'S CLAIM.

CLAIM AGAINST ORIENTAL BREWERY CO.

An interesting case cume on for decision before Mr. Justice Compents in the Summary Jurisdiction Court this morning, when A. Landau brought a claim against the Oriental Brewery Company, Limited, in which firm he was formerly employed as agent, to recover the sum of $109.50-being as to wages from June 21st; $100 in lieu of notice, and $9.50 pocket expenses alleged to have been agreed to be paid by the defendants.

The plaintiff was represented by Mr. Crowther Smith, of Messes. d'Almada and Smith, and the defendants by Mr. E. J. Davidson, of Messrs. Hastings and Hastings. The plaintiff's evidence was that on the 21st ulto, he entered the employ of the defendants, having been engaged by the general manager His agreement was that be should receive $100 a mooth and pocket expenses. H started to work at once and continued luntil the 1st July. On that morning he went to the office as usual and was sent to the Chief of Police to arrange for a licence to permit the browery to sell their beer by the glass. When he returned the chief book-keeper inquired of him if he had the letter of introduction given him by the company to their clients when he first joined. Plaintiff said he had not the letter then, but would get it for them. This finished, he was asked to sign a receipt for $33:33 his wages up to date: Plaintiff said he was not in the habit of getting his pay at the middle of the month, and was told that as there was not enough work for him to do. they could not keep him. Plaintiff then saw the manager, and at that interview he was again told that his services were not required, as there was not enough work for him to do. Plaintiff refused to sign the receipt.

Cross-examined, witness said that before he joined the defendant company he was employed as clerk to the Hongkong Hotel, which he left of his own accord. He did not leave because he was connected with another hotel. Mr. Davidson-You have no connection with

At this stage, Mr. Davidson said that he was willing to pay if he obtained particulars, His Honour-Have you applied for them?

Mr. Davidson-No. The case for the defence was that on 20th ulto., plaintiff went to the defendant firm and asked for employment. Mr. Hocking informed. him that the previous moner had left because his services were unsatisfactory and he got no orders. The manager agreed to engage plaintiff on trial at $100 a month, and pointed out to him that his position depended on the way he did his work. Plantiff's services were also considered unsatisfactory; he got practically no orders, and he was told to go. At the time plaintiff was engaged there was no mention of pocket expenses. The manager of the defendant firm said that when plaintiff came to him for employment he asked him where he was last employed. He said at the clongkong Hotel. Hewas then asked why be left the hotel, and plaintiff replied that it was because he was keeping a small hotel of his own, which the hotel manager did not like, Plaintiff was engaged, but he was seldom in the office. The evidence of the defendant firm's cashier was next heard, and the case for the defence

BATHING FATALITY.

COOLIE DROWNED IN THE SAMCHUN' RIVER.

Another bathing fatality is reported as having occurred in the Samchun river, the victim in this case being a contractor's coolie named Li Leung. The tragedy was reported to the police by a Customs house officer.

It would appear that on Sunday afternoon last the coolie, feeling very warm, walked down to the beach opposite the Customs House and, divesting himself of his clothing, entered the water. He was seen to paddle about for a while and then to proceed further out into the river. Cries of "save life" were next heard, and the Customs house man, whose name was not given, went to the unfuturate man's rescue, but before he could

BAMBOO ROPES.

LOCAL ASSISTANCE REQUESTED.

· Among the items contained in the annual report of the Superintendent of the Botanical and Forestry Department are some interesting details in connection with botanical products, from which, we call the following lines:-Some good series of bamboo ropes, both plaited and twisted, were secured through the kindness of Mr. Playlair and Mr. Higgs, of H M. Consulate, Foochow, and of Mr. Currie, of the C.I.M. Customs at Swatow, and were sent to the Imperial Institute and to Kew ...

With a view to placing the botanical resources of this Department as far as possible at the service of the mercantile community of Hongkong His Excellency has requested me to collect all possible information upon the vegëtable products of this neighbourhood or for which Hongkong is an emporium. This information is to refer chiefly to the raw or partly manufactured products exported from China and to include the locality of their production, quantity available, country to which exported, price at port of export and in the markets to which they eventually go.

The director of the Imperial Institute of London has already on several occasions used the wide resources of his establishment for the investigation of vegetable products in which Hongkong is interested as has been recorded on several occasions in these annual reports, His aid would certainly be sought in certain parts of these commercial investigations and the additional details so obtained as well as others obtainable through afficial sources would perh ps be of sufficient use to firms interested in the trade of the Colony to enable them to take up new products or at any rate to han some of the older onesito great advantage.

. The chief subjects of correspondence with the Institute during the last year have been oils and oil seeds, bamboo products and Chinese -medicines (culticaed in connection with the request of the British Pharmacorcela Committee). The following vegetable products have been selected for preliminary investigation as being among those of most importance to this' Colony: - China root, galangal, abutilon fibre, ramie, apricot kernels and melon seeds.

HONGKONG GARDENS.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

The report for the year 1908 by the superintendent of the Botanical and Forestry Department (Mr. S. T. Dunn) has been issued. We make the following excerpts from the contents: of the comprehensive blue-book which will prove interesting :--

BOTANIC GARDENS. The year was marked by the flowering of two trees which formed important additions to the decorative plants of the Gardens. One of these was Prunus Ungerl which flowered pro-6 to nil against the Artillerymen at the call of | fusely in the middle of January. This "tree, which came originally from Japan, is deciduous and has pretty drooping pink flowers which appear before the leaves. The other tree, Pane lounia Kertunel, also flowers before the leaves appear. The flowers are sweetly scented, white and mauve in colour and about 4 inches long. The tree forms a charming picture when in full flower. The seeds from which this specimen was raised were obtained by Mr. Murray Scott from Mr. Greiser on the North River and very kindly presented by him to the Botanic Gardens in May, 1905.

> Another feature of the year's gardening wasthe flowering of Ornithogalum, bulbs of which were sent through the kindness of our frequent benefactor, Mr. Wallace, of Amoy. Lycoria anrea which had been planted in masses in everal parts of the lawes was very effective in

The daily rainfall in the Gardens is stated in

The zoological collection was increased by the presentation by Capt Mathias, of the S.S. Kal Fong, of two small deer. It was especially satisfactory to obtain these, las deer thrive well under the conditions of the Gardens and as these particular animals had been made pets of on the ship and were accustomed to captivity.

The flower show was held as usual in the Gardens towards the end of February and produced some of the finest exhibits that have yet . been seen in the Colony. The roses were especially good. The attendance was unfortunately small in consequence of the bad

In last year's Augual Report extracts were printed from letters from Mr. Kershaw of Macao written in answer to inquiries from the Hongkong Government as to the best means of encouraging the increase of singing birds in the Island. Mr. Kershaw's advice to endeavour to keep down the mappies which are the principal enemies of all small birds has been enengitically followed during the year under report. During the 6 months ending in March, 1908, the Police alone accounted for 679 magples shot in various parts of Hongkong and Kowloon (with an expenditure of only 750 cartridges); the total, for the year under report

BLAKE GARDEN. A welcome change was introduced by the provision of a fence and gates enabling the Garden to be closed after dusk and rendering secure against damage by mischievous visitors during the night. The filling up of the banks with Rhododendrons and other flowering plants was continued. Some returfing was done but hardly had the lawns and slopes been put into good order, before it was discovered that a large proportion of the grass was undermined by cockchafer grabs. The usual means of dealing with tur pests were uscless; the only effectual remedy was proved to be collecting the insects by hand. But before this could be completed extensive damage had been done, and the returing of large proportion of the Garden will be neces sary. An inscribed stone was set up near the summer house according to the Chinese custom bearing the names of those who subscribed to its construction.

The side rockeries in Glenealy were altered and put into good order, while the island rockery which formed an obstacle to chair traffic was altogether removed. The decoration of the large slope opposite the Hongkong & Shanghai Bank was continued according to the pre-arranged annual plan. A large number of Rhododendrons which were among the shrub added this year should form a fine mass of colour when fully developed.

TAI PO GARDEN. Some planting was carried out around the new Land Office Quarters when first built; during this year a small sum was expended in clean ing up the ground and cutting away the undergrowth which impeded the development of trees.

MCOHITY BHT The typhoon of the 27th and 28th of July probably-did-more-damage-to-the-trees and other Government property under the charge of this department than any previously on record, The damage may be summarised as fol

DUILDINGS. The roofs were blown off 4 of the plant houses: the end of one of the hot houses was many were blown down and killed. BLAKE GARDEN. 'Six of the banians were blown down, one of them being carried into a neighbouring street saved. Most of the young trees planted during the last 3 years were destroyed.

GOVERNMENT HOUSE GROUNDS. Many of the large trees in the immediate neighbourhood of the house were hadly damaged or destroyed: with special regret must be recorded the snapping off at a few feet from the ground of the fine Poinciana (Flame of the Forest) on the west of the house and the disfigurement of one of the great banians at the COLONIAL CEMETERY.

200 of the large trees which made the beauty of this cemetery justly famous were broken short off by the winds and killed. BANKS.

The majority of the large pine trees, which added so much to the pictures que appearance of the main entrance of Government House, were killed.

STREET TREES. The large banians bordering the roads, especially in the central district, received upprecedented punishment. The litter of branches was in some places, a dense langle 12 feet deep filling the whole road, It took about 100 men with axes and saws from daylight until 11 o'clock on the morning following the typhoon to clear narrow passages for traffic in some of the principal thoroughfares. Even with the co-operation of the Sanitary Department it was more than a week before all the debris was removed from the streets. It was not possible to save more than a small proportion of it for sale and recourse had to be taken to the unusual expedient of issuing general permission through the Police for anyone to take away what they wished for fuel. The smaller twigs and leaves which were of no use as fuel and were therefore left on the roads,

, PINE PLANTATIONS. In contrast to the great havor produced among the shade trees is the curious fact that the plantations outside Victoria suffered little; only 7,000 pine trees blown down by the wind have so far been found and sold.

were collected into heaps and burned.

HERBARIUM.

The new species from the Fokien collection of 1905 were published during the year in a paper by the Superintendent in the Journal of the Linnean Society. A collection of plants from the Salwen Valley made by Mr. Forrest, of the Edinburgh Botanic Gardens, was purchased. No specimens from this region previously existed in the collection and it therefore fills a gap in our series of Chinese plants. dens has been previously noticed by botanists. The only collections made by members of the Department were one made in Northern Formosa and one in the mountains round Hakone Lake in Japan by the Superintendent. A large number of local specimens were presented by Mr. Gibbs."

Fleet-Surgeon C G. Matthew, R.N., has contipued his work upon the local ferns and has published the results as " Notes on the forms of Hongkong and the adjacent mainland", a most valuable contribution to the botanical literature of the Colony. The ferns of this part of China have indeed during the year received an unprecedented amount of attention, for Mr. Cepeland recently published an account of the ferns of Southern China in the Philippine Journal of Science, dealing especially with those col ected by Dr. Matthew on the Lien Chau River, by myself on the Min River in Fokien Province and by Mr. Kemp's collectors in the neighbourhood of Swatow. In addition to the above publication the Department is indebted to Dr. Matthew for the time and trouble that he has expended in furnishing notes on the specimens of ferns already placed by him in the Herbatium.

A considerable amount of time was spen during the year in collecting and investigating the plant products used commercially in Hongkong whether of local or other origin. Most of them are well known Chinese drugs. Each was as far as possible identified botanically and speciments with distinctive numbers preserved in the Herbarium, pending their investigation by the medical and other departments con-

The list thus prepared has been subjected to exhaustive examination by Dr. Ho Kai the Government has indeed been exceedingly fortunate in securing his co-operation, for probably by no one but himself could so much interesting information upon the subject have been collected from Chinese sources.

Captain Hodgins, of the S.S. Halying, has once more to be thanked for the various specimens of scientific and economic interest which he has collected at his ports of call and presented to the Department.

The usual list of the year's additions to our flora has been prepared by Mr. Tutcher and is annexed. (Annexure A).

Manchuria, which lay opposite her at pier 44, the Pacific Mail liner China lest pier 42 at I o'clock yesterday afternoon for Hongyong, via Honolulu and Yokohams, reports the San Francisco Chronicle of 18th ult.

The bright and clean appearance of the British built vessel was much commented upon by the passengers, who were to travel by the China, and their friends, who attended at the wharf to bid them adieu.

Over 100 first-cabin passengers left by the steamer, almost all the available cabin space being fully occupied. The large number traveling was partly accounted for by the fact that the GA.sa is one of the vessels assigned to deal with the intermediate traffic.

Among the three extra passengers who wil join the China at Honolulu is Miss Ada Cockroft, sister of Freight and Passenger Agent L. F. Cockroft of the Oceanic Steamship Company Miss Cockroft will proceed by the China as far as Yokohama for a pleasure trip.

Seventeen Japanese who had illegally entered the United States from Mexico were deported on the China.

One of the main items which the liner is carrying to the Orient is $1,000,000 gold, which is being taken for the Japanese Government and will be delivered at Yokohams. She also had on board $500,000 in silver for banks at Canton, Hongkong and Shanghair

The freight taken by the liner was light and amounted to about 2,000 tons. It included an unusually large shipment of lead for Yokohama, Kobe, Shanghai and Hongkong, the total being 500 tons. This shipment of lead was reported by the officials of the company to be the largest shipment of its sort that has left this port for many months. Another item in the cargo was Edoco test of Inmpar for Chinese Considered to show public indignation at the kidnapping of M. Voisin by brigands, call attention to the fiery speeches delivered denouncing the weakkneed policy of the Government in seeking to capture the outlaws instead of shooting them' down as enemies of society. The speakers know that they run the risk of arrest, but, nevertheless. 'fearlessly held up to scom, amid applause, both the governor-general and the minister for the colonies. The startled authorities called out the troops and police, as they feared that those who attended the meeting would make their way to Government House and mob the governor-general. This remarkable compound, the result of the latest developments and achievements of modern chemistry, pharmacology, and therapeutics, is without equal in all cases of defective nerve power, whether induced by worry, over-work, unhealthy climate, dissipation, excess, youthful imprudence, or other influences incidental to the wear and tear and haste or overstrain of modern life. Sleepleasness, tremblings, palpitation, nervous dyspepsis. Jow spirits, mental and bodily prostration, muscular and local weakness, general and nervous debility, faulty nutrition, premature decay or deficiency of the vital forces, impaired vitality, harassing dreams, night disturbances, sudden startings, dimness of sight, defective hearing, loss of memory, inability to perform the various dulies of life, or to enjoy its pleasures, resilessness that can actife to nothing, irritability of temper, female complaints, hysicial, painful periods, backache, bearing down sensations, nervous headache, wasting disease, night aweats, and all other, phases of brain and nerve exhaustion, are successfully combated by this highly scientific preparation. Bracing up the system generally, it gives ions to the exhausted nerves, arrests all weakening wasting discharges, involuntary losses, etc.; restores the falling energies, and imparts new life and vigour to what had so recently scienced worn out.

Never before was there anything like it, nor can its marvellous properties ever be equalled in all cases of poorness, impurity, or other imperfection of the blood from whatever cause arising. No sooner is it imbified into the system than it permeates and penetrates to the minutest capillaries, overcoming and expelling the virus of disease, wheresoever and in whatsoever form met with; removing all blotches, pimples, scurf, scurvy, scrofulous and giandular swellings, discolorations, roughness and unsightly patches, dtc. Its effects are almost magical in the grandular swellings, discolorations, roughness and unsightly patches, dtc. Its effects are almost magical in the grandular swellings, discolorations, sciatics, lumbago, pains and swellings of the joints, discharges, secondary aymptoms, eczema, lepra, paoriasis, bad legs, bad breasts, abscesses, ulcers, sores, goire or Derbyshire neck, it improves the general health, and quickly removes long-standing bronchitis, asthma, and hacking, straining, apasmodic cough, too often the precursor of consumption.

CAUTION.—Ask for "VETARZO Brain and Nerve Food," or "VETARZO Blood Medicine," whichever is required, and see that you get them, as unprincipled vendors often try to palm off inferior, preparations (usually their own manufacture), for the sake of extra profit. Price in Rugiand, 1/9. Every genuine bottle of these their own manufacture) for the sake of extra profit. Price in Rugiand, 1/9. Every genuine bottle of these medicines bears the British Government Stamp with the words "VETARZO REMEDIES" impressed thereon, in white letters on a red ground, by direction of His Majesty's Hon. Commissioners. Registered Trade Mark VETARZO." Legal proceedings will be taken against persons pirating.

COMMON SENSE IN A HUTSHELL.—A NEW medical work on the cames and most scientific and effectual means of self-cure ever discovered for nervous exhaustion, depression of spirits, want of seat and energy, &c., with practical observations on marriage and full directions for removing certain disquisifications that destroy the happiness of wedded life. It also treats on urinary derangements, secondary symptoms, stricture, &c., and no sufferer should fail to procure a copy. Post free in plain envelope on receipt of Postal Order Sixpence, from The Verange Remember Co., Gospel Oak, London, or of Agents for above medicines. Price 10 annex Fost Free.
